

Jai Bhavnani
Rari Capital
jai@rari.capital

September 6, 2021

To whom it may concern,

Samuel Shadrach has been an active contributor here at the Rari Capital DAO for the entirety of the 2021 summer. Samuel has been a pleasure to work with, bringing his attention to detail to every project he was involved with. There are two major things that made Samuel such a great asset to the DAO: his genuine curiosity and his innovative thinking.

Samuel is constantly asking questions and pushing others around him to think about everything from first principles. Samuel is constantly hungry for knowledge and his pursuit only helps others around him. Secondly, Samuel has a strategically different way of thinking. For example, in discussing capital efficiency of a certain project, instead of attacking it from the product itself (like everyone else), he found a way to build an app on top that would bring heightened levels of efficiency. This was something that nobody was thinking about at the time, an innovative perspective and an innovative solution.

I can highly recommend Samuel for any opportunity you have available. Samuel is quick to pick up on anything and is a very talented young man. Everyone here wishes him all the best with his move.

If you need any additional information, please contact me.

Best regards,
Jai Bhavnani